

PAPER DOLLS

This string of paper dolls illustrates the child's ambivalence regarding the offender-victim status. In formulating a treatment plan, particular emphasis will be on enabling the child to view the offender as responsible and the child as an innocent victim. It also illustrates the need to enhance the support from the non-offending parent.

BAND-AIDS & BLAME

The relationship triangle is a powerful assessment tool. This particular configuration portrays the child's conflicted feelings of responsibility and over-concern for the non-offending parent.
